MINNEAPOLIS, July 10 .- But one day remains of the National Educational Association convention of 1902, and in all respects it has proved a record breaker. The | women students at colleges should consize of the crowds has been unprecedented and the number and quality of the attractions offered has never in the history of the association been equaled. A score or more of speakers have been heard at the general sessions and the department meet- education. Twenty thousand scholars men in our Nation now carry a larger per from all parts of the country have spent the week in the city, either as delegates to the convention or as mere visitors, availing themselves of the low railroad rates to see the great bread-and-butter State. Many of these will remain in the vicinity for some time in order to visit points of interest in the neighborhood of the Twin Cities and numerous small excursions have been planned for their enjoyment and education.

WILSON'S ADDRESS.

There was a large attendance at the generaly session which was signalized by three notable addresses. After Miss Edna H. Hall had sung and Rev. J. H. Montgomery, of Wesley M. E. Church, had offered prayer, branch of their profession. Mr. Seeley dethe Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"We have adopted much in our systems of education from peoples who have not our responsibilities, people who educate men of leisure, passion, class, privilege, caste, birth and all that. The people govern here. They should be educated with a view to their development along the lines of their life work, whatever that may be. What can be done for our producers that they may live on higher levels of comfort and happiness; that they may help the weary hand with a better trained head, and have more time to devote to intellectual, moral and spiritual life, is the previous question which the educators of the great producing States of our country are called to answer. The four-year college course does not begin soon enough nor continue long enough to meet the requirements of our day in this regard. Teachers are wanted in primary and secondary schools and in post-graduate work in the university. They are wanted to do work that has not been done in all the ages, the discovery of truths underlying production and their application to the farm.

The most useful and valuable educational work in all the world, appealing to the educator, is that of the farmers of the country. Ploneer work along this line is waiting. The organization of faculties to do the work; apparatus, laboratories, textbooks, illustrative material from primary to post-graduate and beyond, where studies of specialities must be combined, where research must be broadened and where specialties must be grouped to reach desired end and meet the pressing demands of producers all these are waiting. This is the great field of applied science, where the grower seeks the help of the scholar, of the experimenter and of the observer. The millions of farmers look to you for help in these directions."

TALK BY SCHURMANN. Cornell University and former member of the Philippine commission, then made a most interesting address on "Education in the Philippines," in which he said in part:

"On the side of intellect and scholarship the Filipinos may be expected to rival the The idea of the leaders is to have a na-Japanese, as well as in material civilization and the application of the sciences to industrial life, wherein Japan already pre- of definite and binding contracts which sents a very American appearance. But it is not only the scientific and material elements of American civilization that are destined to reproduce themselves in the Philippines, though these will greatly modify and perhaps transform the existing methods of production, transportation and exchange. While economically and industrially the archipelago will take on a new and much improved countenance. there is one other phase of Philippine life. a deeper and more vital phase, that is destined to be still more profoundly influenced by all our educational work in the archipelago. If American civilization differs from European, not by the greater excellence of its literary and skill and inventiveness with which it embodies laws and principles in machinery that nature operates, thus increasing man's economic efficiency; it also differs from that older civilization in another respect which cannot but have momentous consequences when transplanted to the Philippines. I refer to our political philosophy which is radically different from that of any European people, past or present. We glory in our applied mechanics which are destined to develop the physical resources of the Philippine islands, but far more glorious is our political philosophy, which is full of hope and promise for the Philippine nation and for every people and race on the globe. "The kind of people we are, the way we govern ourselves, the history we have made and the political philosophy we have given to the world, all consecrate Americans as the advocates and preachers of liberty democracy and national independence, and believe that an independent Philippine republic will be the final result, as it would be the most glorious consummation of our great educational work in the Philippines. MRS. CATT SPEAKS.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt spoke of "The Home and Higher Education." In part,

"Within a few days there have been graduated from our colleges and universities 4,000 or 5,000 young women. The fact represents the fruit of a half-century o earnest and intelligent agitation in behalf of the right of women to receive the higher education and the duty of the public to provide means whereby that education may be acquired. College women are now far too numerous to be regarded as an innovation, and their achievements have been too important to consider them longer as an experiment, yet there is evidence in plenty that the college woman, her present sphere and her future destiny furnish a problem which vexes the spirit of many a skeptic. The subtle ridicale which attended the advent of the college woman has given way to cordial approval. The conversion of intolerance into tolerance, of ridicule into applause, is due to the fact that these doubts have been forever quieted by the indisputable demonstration of the fallacy of the four chief claims of the opposition:

"Women are mentally capable of grasping a college education, and a great many women are more capable of doing so than a great many men. "Women are physically able to bear the continued strain of a college course, and many are far better able to bear it than many men. "The college woman has no more lost the 'eternal womanly' than the college man has lost the 'eternal manly' in the struggle for

"For fifty years the extension of educa- oughly sound." tional privileges to the women has been a concession to the plea for individual rights raised in defense of the rights of men. An impetus was undoubtedly given to the new line of thought, when, in 1898, Charles W Harris, commissioner tinue to increase as rapidly in proportion to men students as they have done in the past it would not be many years before there would be more women than men in our colleges. This fact evidently has frightened the conservative and aroused gentle but firm opposition to cofrom our grammar and high schools are considerably greater in number than boys, and the even more significant fact that cent, of illiteracy than women may have added to the general warmth of conservatives. To my mind coeducation will suffer little from the present flurry of opposition. The system is founded on claims too broad, sound and progressive. "Invite the college woman to share the work of the world according to her inclinations and her abilities, recognizing her as a positive factor of society, as in the case of her endowments we may feel safe to conclude nature intended her to be. Then endow her with the ballot that she may have authority to force her opinions and to do the work of her choice in the most effective way.' GROWTH OF EDUCATION. The only paper read in the department of secondary education this afternoon was that of Dr. John W. Perrin, Western Rethe growth of education in New England turies and showed how the Puritan school value of teaching agriculture in the public schools and illustrated her ideas by describing some garden experiments made by Chicago teachers and their pupils. Jesse D. Burks, assistant in the department of elementary education, Teachers' College, New York city, in discussing the paper approved its ideas on the broad ground that such study was not only practically valuable but necessary to bring pupils to a vivid comprehension of their social background. Miss May H. Prentice, of the Cleveland Clty Normal School, discussed the use of myth and of history in elementary education.

The art and manual training departments had a joint meeting and listened to a paper by Harold Peyser, instructor in manual training in the New York city schools, on practical co-operation between art and manual training institutions. The normal school department devoted itself to a consideration of the defects of normal schools. According to Levi Seeley, professor of pedagogy in the State Normal School at Trenton, N. J., the defects are: Lack of scholarship in normal graduates. which is a fundamental necessity in a teacher's equipment; lack of close relationship between the normal school and its clientage, because the graduate has not community, is out of sympathy with it and shoots over its head; lack of circumscribed aim, all graduates being given the same course of study instead of being and Duchess of Teck and other notabilities. trained for specialization in some one clared that there should be in every State two kinds of normal schools, one for the common schools and one for the higher schools. All the departments of the association held meetings this afternoon in various parts of the city, and to-night the faculty the State University, the teachers of Minneapolis and the Minneapolis Commercial Club tendered the members of the association a general reception at the State University. The reception proper was held in the armory of the University, and, despite the fact that it is capable of holding accommodate the throngs who were present to-night. The reception proved one of the most delightful occurrences of the convention, and following it were several department receptions at the university, in the library building. Various State receptions were held in the respective State headquarters at the West Hotel, after the general and department receptions at the university were over. To-morrow morning a general session will be held at the exposition building, at which William T. Harris, United States commissioner of education; Charles P. G. Scott. etymological editor of the Century Dictionary, and Prof. T. C. Trueblood, of the University of Michigan, will deliver addresses. The afternoon will be taken up with department meetings and the final session of the convention will be held in the evening. at which Dr. C. M. L. Sites, president of the Educational Association of China, and Dr. J. H. Finley, professor of politics, Princeton University, will speak.

CORONATION BAZAAR.

Notable Function in Which Many Americans Took Part. LONDON, July 10 .- The Coronation Bazaar, which is probably the biggest affair of its kind ever held, and an organization which was chiefly due to the energy of Mrs. Cornelius Adair, Mrs. J. H. Choate and other prominent Americans, was opened by Queen Alexandra this afternoon. The bazaar was held under a temporary structure covering 150,000 square feet in the botanical gardens, Regent's Park. It was in aid of the Hospital for Sick Children. Over 5,000 tickets at a guinea each were sold in advance. A bank had been established on the ground and dinners were served at 2 guineas, meal without wine.

One of the features of the affair was to have been the raffling of a number of motor cars, pianos and various articles of jewelry. For these tickets to the value of thousands of pounds had already been sold here, on the continent and in America, but the police intervened. In the House of Commons, yesterday evening, the home secretary, Mr. Ritchie, announced that the proposed raffles were a violation of the law and they would not be permitted The Queen, in semi-state, with an escort of the Life Guards and accompanied by several members of the royal family, drove up to Regent's Park at 4 o'clock in the aftermoon. Her Majesty was welcomed by the Duke and Duchess of Fife, the Duke The Indian princes, the colonial premiers, almost all of the members of the diplorepresentatives of the nobility were assembled on a dals. From amid a fanfare of trumpets the Queen declared the bazaar opened. An inspection of the stalls, of which there were nearly forty, was then begun. At each stall her Majesty was received by the ladies who organized it. At the American court Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid accompanied the Queen on her tour of inspection. The American court consisted of eight elaborate stalls. Consuelo. Duchess of Marlborough, watched over the embroideries and American books. 10,000 people, it was taxed to the utmost to Mrs. Bradley-Martin supervised American preserved fruits, Mrs. Eaton had charge of the candies. The latter price was asked for the De Beers 207-carat diamond shown at the Buffalo Exposition, and for the great Southern cross pearl. In addition to these was the stall of works of art and fancy articles, at which Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Reid and the ladies of the American embassies presided. Among the aristocratic saleswomen was the Duchess of Marlborough, who in her stall had three hundred pounds' worth of china sent for sale by Emperor William. Other stallholders included the Duchess of Leeds, the Duchess of Sutherland, the Duchess of Somerset, the Duchess of Wellington, the Duchess of Westminster. She was assisted by police, the officers will be required to ferret other inmates and the allied forces were out the place before getting a clew to the successful in causing Edna Hall, the "cowboy" girl, to appeal to the matron for relief and other quarters. The brave "cowboy" girl's career in the prison has not been so enchanting as the freedom of the streets of the city. In the first place she was accused by one of the negro women in prison of being "stuck up" and "not fit to associate with common peoyesterday, on advices from Muncle saying ple." The negress also charged her with coming to the prison to "play parlor." She dismissed. Silverman was arrested a few was also told that the jail is a place for months ago, charged with getting about | "common people" and insinuated that Edna five hundred dollars' worth of diamonds was out of "her 'vironments." Then came from J. C. Sipe, the jeweler. He bought Mrs. Harrison with her daughter and the stones on time and pawned them. He spirits. Edna was finally ostracised from was arrested in Hot Springs and brought | the "society," and yesterday evening she | p. in. night in a seperate cell.

AND TIRED MOTHERS

INSTANT RELIEF and refreshing sleep for Skin-tortured Babies and rest for Tired Mothers in warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, and gentle anointings with CUTICURA OINTMENT, the great skin cure and purest of emollients, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT PILLS, to cool and cleanse the blood. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent, and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply humours, eczemas, rashes, irritations, and itchings, with loss of hair, of infants and children, yet compounded.

Assisted by CUTICURA OINTMENT, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odours. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the tollet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT PILLS (Chocolate Coated) are a new, tasteless, brated liquid Cuticuna Resolvent, as well as for all other blood purifiers and humour cures. Each pill is equivalent to one teaspoonful of liquid RESOLVEST. Put up in screwcapped pocket vials, containing 60 doses, price 25c.
